

CYBERATTACK EMERGENCY RESPONSE

1. ALERT

Alert the IT department and mobilise the emergency response functions in your own organisation. Remember to communicate the crisis to external and internal stakeholders.

The National Cybercrime Centre (NC3):

+47 23 20 80 00

The National Criminal Investigation Service (Kripos) works to prevent, uncover and counter threats and crime in the digital sphere. Early alert will enable to start immediate collection of digital evidence and increases the chance of prosecuting the attacker through national and international channels. Staffed 24/7.

The National Cyber Security Centre (NCSC):

+47 23 31 07 50

The NCSC can assist with advice etc. The NCSC also operates the national alert and early warning system for digital infrastructure. Staffed 24/7.

Økokrim's Financial Intelligence Unit:

+47 23 29 14 05

The Financial Intelligence Unit can in many cases assist with suspending transfers abroad that relate to money laundering and financing of terrorism. Staffed Monday to Friday from 09:00 to 15:00.

2. HANDLE

Request urgent assistance from contracted providers and other providers of cyberattack handling services. Obtain advice on which immediate measures to implement and implement them. We recommend giving the incident handling services provider authority to make direct contact with the authorities (NC3/NCSC) and to share relevant information with them as it emerges.

Consider whether to report the attack to the Norwegian Data Protection Authority.

In most cases, you will be required by law to report loss, dissemination or changes to personal data to the Data Protection Authority within 72 hours. Read more at www.datatilsynet.no/brudd or scan the QR code.

Report the attack to the local police. Inform the local police of any prior contact with NC3 and NCSC. The police contacts for the business sector (see below) have no operational role during incidents, but can provide advice and guidance. If you do not want to formally report the attack to the police, you can still provide relevant information.

3. RESTORE

Implement plans for emergency operation of crucial IT systems. Restoring normal operations can take weeks, making it important to put alternative systems and operations in place at an early stage.
